

Delivering a quality service at all times requires our Company to look beyond the present and to focus on the developments which will increase the value of the organisation for all of its stakeholders, generate future competitiveness, lead to the delivery of services in a consistent manner, operate as a learning organisation at all times and lead to more effective use of resources.

Service excellence cannot be achieved in the short-term, nor can our Company ever truly say that we have 'achieved' excellence because it's a journey not a destination; the quest for excellence will mean that our Company is constantly pushing the bar to get even better at what we do.

It is perhaps a cliché today to talk in terms of achieving total customer satisfaction but if our goal is to strive for service excellence that is precisely what we must attain. It is vital that we strive to set our business apart from others in terms of service quality and customer satisfaction. There are many average businesses in our sector, but the number of truly outstanding companies is few.

Therefore, the journey to excellence requires our Company to 'think' as much as it does to 'do', and reflecting on what makes (or can make) our business special and unique is not time wasted, but time saved because based on the answers we find to such questions, we will do more of the right things in future.

Shanahan Engineering is committed to providing construction, commissioning, technical field services and consultancy services that satisfy our customers' needs and expectations in safety, quality, reliability, competitiveness and in a timely manner while complying with all relevant requirements, legislation and standards.
